

Be sharp! Look the part.

St. Petersburg College provides highly visible, important services and programs to a variety of people – students, guests, visiting professionals and community officials.

How we represent the college – from the way we interact and do our work to the way we dress – creates an impression of SPC.

Because no guidelines can cover all positions or situations, members of the SPC family are asked to apply judgment in deciding what to wear to work.

If you're uncertain about what attire is acceptable, ask your supervisor.

Likewise, supervisors are expected to offer direction regarding professional dress standards.

Supervisors are encouraged and expected to counsel employees whose attire is inappropriate or does not meet expectations.

“A first impression is a lasting impression.”

- Andrew Kaplan