

National University of Health Sciences Clinic – Caruth Health Education Center

When you visit our clinic, you'll be treated by a chiropractic clinician or intern trained in primary care medicine. You can rely on our professionals as a first point of contact for all of your health needs, not just back problems. If your condition is beyond the scope of chiropractic care, our doctors will refer you to the appropriate health care professional.

NUHS is committed to “Whole Health Healing.” We take the time to evaluate all the many factors in your life that may be affecting your well-being. Then we choose the best combination of treatment options for your unique health care needs. Our chiropractic physicians offer a variety of services, including:

- Lab tests, blood and urine testing, EKG
- Spinal and extremities manipulation
- Nutritional counseling
- Physiological Therapeutic Modalities

. . . and much more.

How Our Doctors Are Trained

Our chiropractic physicians are trained as broad-scope primary care health providers. We consider a wide range of factors that can impact your health, such as biomechanical dysfunction, genetics, trauma, hygiene, microorganisms, nutritional status, exercise, posture, environment, and stress.

How to Apply

NUHS has the highest admissions requirement of any chiropractic school – requiring a bachelor's degree for entry. In addition to your bachelor's degree, you will need to have completed general and basic science prerequisites in order to better prepare you for success in the program.

You can begin your program in September, January or May. You can start the application process online at www.nuhs.edu with our online application form, or you may contact the Florida Recruitment Coordinator, Raena Boston at 727-302-6461 or by email at rboston@nuhs.edu.
