REPORTING COVID-19 or FLU-LIKE SYMPTOMS

- In addition, completing the symptom checker self-assessment each day before you arrive for work or classes, is critical in ensuring that we can effectively contract trace.
- If you are experiencing any COVID-19 or flu-like symptoms, DO NOT come to campus. Contact your faculty member immediately.
- You may return to campus according to the college's Fall 2021 guidelines at spcollege.edu/spc-updates.
Please look at the guidelines for students and employees in the SPC Comeback Plan box on the webpage:

- According to the CDC, the most common symptoms of COVID-19 include fever or chills, coughing, shortness of breath or difficulty breathing, fatigue, muscle or body aches, headache, new loss of taste or smell, sore throat, congestion or runny nose, nausea or vomiting, and diarrhea. Symptoms may appear within two days of exposure and vary in severity from person to person. We encourage all students, staff and faculty to complete the daily symptom checker before attending class or work each day, stay at home when necessary, and follow reporting guidelines.

- Students who are exposed to a person with COVID-19 should stay home and notify St. Petersburg College. In general, close contact involves living in the same household as a sick person, caring for a sick person or being within 6 feet of a sick person for a period of 15 minutes or more.
- Particular campuses or programs may have additional requirements beyond the college's Fall 2021 guidelines at spcollege.edu/spc-updates. Please review information provided by your specific program/campus.
